it is estimated that about half of people with optic neuritis will later develop multiple sclerosis.